

Thoughtful Design Inspires Creative Solution

In the remodeling industry, the process of Design/Build integrates the design and construction components of a project to provide you, the client, with the most appropriate solution. A Design/Build company accomplishes this by listening to what you want, understanding what you need, and successfully combining practical and creative talents to come up with a design that is aesthetically pleasing and functional. The Design/Build process is a convenient full service experience that allows homeowners to work with one professional team on the design and construction of their remodeling project.

The key to the process is to combine both the practical side of building with creative side of design at the very beginning and meld them together through the end of production. With that integration, production can ensure design does not create a project that is unrealistic, while design can maintain the integrity of the plans. This team approach to remodeling is a very cost effective system to achieve the home you have always wanted.

Creative remodeling Design/Build firms rely on design to make their company distinctive. Outstanding remodeling designs coordinate style, function, budget, seamless integration, code requirements, and other project factors. A quality Design/Build company will begin your project with your immediate needs in mind: e.g., adding a mudroom to help keep the main house cleaner or remodeling an outdated kitchen to create a more efficient and attractive living space. They will then expand on your initial needs to develop the best use of space. The correct design solution is just the starting point, rather than completion. The result is a seamless transfer of information from the drawings to the reality of the home of your dreams.
